EXCITING CRICKET GAME

Season Closes Saturday Afternoon in a Crimson Blaze of Glory.

The last cricket season was brought to a close Saturday afternoon by a match between teams of Married and Single players. The game, which was played under very favorable conditions, was decided by the best of the season and quite a number of enthusiasts were present to witness the windup, including Commissioner H. D. Murray and several ladies.

Previous to Saturday's game two teams had already been played between the same eleven, the singles winning the game eleven, the marrieds winning by six runs. The game was played in a very exciting manner, the marrieds winning by the narrow margin of one run.

Mr. L. B. Bether made his first appearance on the field for over a month and played throughout one inning. The game was the most satisfactory feature of the season. The excellent showing of the marrieds was the result of the fact that the marrieds were the only team who had a batsman who was a professional player.

The game was a very close one, the marrieds leading by one run at the end of the first innings. The singles team was bowled out for a score of 100 runs, the marrieds being bowled out for a score of 99 runs.

HANRAHAN HELD THE BIGGEST HAND

A Jack-pot of $17 had just been opened. One player held three Jacks and a pair of Queens. Another had four fives. The betting was high. The pot was opened with a $3 bet. The man with the four fives raised it. The next man stayed, and so it went around the table.

All this occurred yesterday morning at exactly 1:30 o'clock—Sunday morning too. Six men were enjoying the hospitality of "Bob" Gardner at his residence on Punchbowl street, opposite the Queen's Hospital. It was a popular place. Hacks had driven up and hacks had driven away during the evening. Men had gone in and others had come out. Among the men who "went in" were Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth and Officer Hanrahan. They went into the premises quietly and found a place where they could look in on a room from which the clicking of poker chips could be plainly heard.

They had a good position. They were on the roof and could look through an opening. They saw the game and when the Jack pot was reached concluded to take a hand also. They intended to go into it with a full hand and take the pot. When the bets were concluded, Hanrahan who had slipped down to the door, quickly opened it and reaching for the table said, "I have a full hand." The two officers gazed into the hands of the betters and then declared the game off for the rest of the early morning. Two gave bail while four others were released on their own recognizance to appear in court this morning. The party consisted of "Bob" Gardner and Messrs. Coits, Schroeder, Lambert, Kirby and Crede.

In the early days of steamboating on the Ohio River they had only stern-wheel boats, and old Commodore McCullough, of Cincinnati, conceived a scheme to build and launch a palace "side-wheeler," which would by grace of her beauty and size "run the stern-wheelers out of the trade." He carried his ideas to a successful and beautiful finish, and sent her on her initial trip, and she came back $500 loser. The natives along the river would not ship on her, nor would they ride on her, nor trust their live stock on her. They "couldn't see the wheel go round." So the Flora Belle made trip after trip, burning from $500 to $1,000 worth of coal and taking in perhaps $200. The newspapers took it up and it was street talk about what a "frost" the Flora Belle was. At this time the old National Theatre was the bon ton theatre of Cincinnati, and its gallant men and lovely women thronged the performance of one of those "Bertha, the Sewing-Machine Girl" dramas, with a "hy-perbole" heroine, and there was one scene in which the lover proposed marriage. "No," said the heroine, "I can never be your wife, Harold. You are wealthy, you are a millionaire, while I am only a poor sewing girl. If I marry you all my friends will say it was for your money, and I love you, darling, for yourself. Get rid of your money, my darling, and I will be your wife." And she made her exit in tears. The lover walked up and down the stage, wringing his hands. "How," he cried, "how can I win her? How can I get rid of my money?" That was the old commodore's cue. He rose up in the center of the parquet and shouted: "Buy the Flora Belle!"

of Wilcox's supporters to desert and flock to the Republican party. His having been one of Wilcox's lieutenants in the past, and now identifying himself with the Republicans, may cause a rupture in the Independent party detrimental to Wilcox's interests.

MEETINGS AT KOHALA

Sam Parker and Others are Talking Republican Doctrines.

(Special Correspondence.) KAPAAU, Kohala, Hawaii.—A Republican night at Niuli, four miles from Kapaa, H. L. Holstein, Republican candidate on the legislative ticket, presided. G. P. Kamaoaha, J. D. Paris, W. J. Coelho, Sam Parker and W. C. Achi, addressed an audience of 280 Hawaiians on the principles of the party and their duty as citizens of the big island. The meeting was held outside the store of Kimo Parker, who is one of the old residents of the district. Sam Parker is the favorite here. Messages have been received by the party to come to different points.

KAPAAU MEETING.

A successful meeting was held here last night in the courthouse, which act of courtesy was permitted by Judge Edging. There were over 500 people present, and more than half the audience had to stand on the veranda and in the yard. H. L. Holstein presided. The speakers were G. P. Kamaoaha, on the candidates; J. D. Paris, on the delegate, candidates and the party; J. C. Lehart, on the party and annexation; Mr. Fraser, on candidates and the good of the party; Hon. Sam Parker, on delegates, and W. C. Achi, on the party and delegate.

The speeches were applauded. They were strong, clear and to the point. Through the efforts of Mr. Achi several candidates put up by the Home Rule party came forward and expressed their strong desire to aid Parker's campaign. They said that Wilcox, Kalaokalani and Kaula made false representations to them concerning the best party in the field. They had come to believe that the Home Rule party was the best under the Territorial form of Government.

They said after hearing the Republican speakers, they saw the folly of following the policy of Wilcox and Kalaokalani, and were willing during the remainder of the campaign to support Parker and the Republican ticket. Mahulani of Kona was very strong up to the time the Republican speakers invaded the district. He is now heart and soul for Parker.

Several of the Democratic candidates also have expressed their opposition to Prince David. They said, "He is yet young, and should stay in Hawaii and learn a little more of politics." The Hawaiians here are strong against Wilcox and David, and equally strong in support of Parker.

Kohala, Kona and Kau.

The total registration in Kohala, Kona and Kau, of Hawaii, up to October 5, was: First Precinct, 337; Second Precinct, 50; Third Precinct, 299; Fourth Precinct, 236; Fifth Precinct, 233; Sixth Precinct, 197; Seventh Precinct, 55.

LOEBENSTEIN'S OPINIONS.

Senatorial Candidate Talks About the Campaign.

HILO, Hawaii, October 6.—The Tribune says: "Hon. A. B. Loebenstein, senatorial candidate for the First District, returned by the Kinai from a two weeks' trip to Honolulu, which included the Territorial convention, at which he was chairman of this district's delegation. As the readers of the Tribune already know, Mr. Loebenstein won much glory for himself and his district by the brilliant speech in which he placed Hon. Samuel Parker in nomination for delegate to Congress.

"Mr. Loebenstein is well satisfied with the work of the convention, and with the general status of the Republican party in Honolulu, where the opposition element is however strong. Fortunately there is now a greater degree of harmony in the Honolulu Republican ranks than a short time ago. Some of the men who were most pronounced in their factional differences upon both sides have buried the hatchet and are working together for the common cause.

"Mr. Parker accompanied by several enthusiastic Republicans came down by the Kinai, and commencing with Kohala, will work the territory around Hilu. Mr. Loebenstein went out yesterday to meet them.

"Mr. Loebenstein was somewhat indignant, though more amused, at the Republican caucus held here just before the district convention and in his absence for the purpose of working up opposition to his candidacy. The meeting with which this scheme was turned down in the convention, and the candidates favored in the caucus thrown over, also appealed to his sense of humor.

"With regard to the disappointed candidates for nomination bolting the party because they got left in the convention, and running independently, said a local Republican yesterday, 'I don't believe in it. It simply weakens the party without giving any advantage or benefit to the disgruntled candidate. I might say more particularly that I think ministers of the gospel have quite enough work cut out for them in the saving of souls, for the present. In fact, although one can serve both the party and the church, the Republican party at the same time, I doubt whether he can make a specialty of each and succeed.

"Mr. Loebenstein is the regular nominee of the party from this part of the First District. Probably no man of greater ability or more experience in island political affairs could have been picked out, and we have no reason to suppose he will use his ability and experience for purposes detrimental to the Territory and the District. The platform corresponds with his ideas expressed long ago, and we have no reason to suppose he will not support it in the Legislature. He has enemies, plenty of them, right in the Republican party; he's the kind of man that makes enemies, as most men that amount to anything do. If these men are going to bolt their party and the ticket, vote for any other old nominee, regular or irregular, because they don't like Loebenstein, the Republican rolls the better for the party, and if they want get off themselves, they should be helped off. It's the business of every Republican now the nominations are made to take off his coat and pitch in and work for the party's candidates, instead of nursing their private dislikes and spreading wet blankets over the fire of party enthusiasm. The party in Hawaii isn't strong enough yet to run a mugwump

MEN OPERATORS WILL WORK IF PAID BETTER

IT IS UP to the telephone company now. It has the chance to say whether the telephone system of the City shall continue in operation or be tied up for a period of weeks. The night operators on the system, and indeed all of the men operators, have made a proposition to the new superintendent, J. H. Corcoran, whereby they agree to continue at work provided they receive an increase in wages. They want a $5 raise all around, and unless the company will agree to grant them this they will all go out.

A committee of the men who work at night had a conference with Mr. Corcoran on Saturday, at which they told him all their grievances. The committee consisted of Frank Ornelas, Thomas Halstead and Louis Sam. They state to him that they were receiving very small wages and were working thirteen hours out of the twenty-four and they believed that they were entitled to more pay. Mr. Corcoran said he believed that they were also and he promised to put the matter directly before the company and will give the operators an answer tomorrow. If the answer is not favorable, then all of the night operators will walk out. And they promise that they shall be no job about it, either for they will all abide by the agreement. The only reason that they went back to work at all Saturday night was upon the promise of Mr. Corcoran that they should be given fair treatment at the hands of the company.

"We are not anxious to hamper the company," said one of the operators last evening, "but we believe that we are entitled to more money, and now that there is a change of management it is a good time to make a strike for it. We ask only for the single thing—more pay—that is all."

The girl's strike seems to have reached a phase more favorable to the company. The places of nearly all of the girls who left because their old chief, Mr. Brede, was reduced, have been filled by new girls or old ones who have been connected with the company before, and there was little difficulty yesterday. The company has had numerous applications for positions and Manager Corcoran believes that he will have no difficulty in finding all of the women operators he wants. In the case of the women the issue is squarely whether Miss Brede shall be continued in office or not. Mr. Corcoran says she shall not and the seven strikers for two of the original number have gone back to work, saying that they will not work unless Miss Brede is restored. As he is filling the places of the strikers without more than usual annoyance, to the subscribers, Mr. Corcoran seems to have the better of the argument.

side show for the children, and we don't intend to try it."

THE FIRST DISTRICT.

Details of the Republican Convention at Laupahoehoe.

(Special Correspondence, delayed in transmission.) LAUPAHOEHOE, Sept. 23.—The Republican delegates of the First District met in Laupahoehoe on Thursday, September 27, as agreed on at the adjournment in Hilu, on September 6, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Senator and Representative. The convention was called to order at 10 a. m. sharp in the schoolhouse by Thomas Ridgeway, the vice chairman. Chairman Campbell being sick and unable to be present. Secretary Richards was likewise absent, but without such good excuse, and also caused some confusion by failing to send the records of the previous session. For temporary secretary, Harry Rycroft, E. W. Estep and C. Omsted, were placed in nomination. Rycroft begged off on the ground that the Puna delegation was few and far between, and he did not wish to further weaken it by leaving the floor, and Estep said he had ridden since 2 o'clock and was nervous and did not feel like writing. Omsted had a clear field and was made secretary.

The roll call showed 41 delegates present, either in person or by proxy. Delegate Carl Smith was the only one not accounted for in some way, and on motion of Delegate Guard his name was stricken from the roll of delegates. Mr. Smith's conduct was commented on in rather severe terms, as he was sent as a delegate to the Territorial convention at his own request, and after promising in open convention he would attend, and then failed to take any part even when sent for by his fellow members, and giving no proxy to anyone. He led the winning fight for postponement in Hilu, and holding the nominating convention in Laupahoehoe, and then refused to land in Laupahoehoe and attend.

Nominations for Senator were then declared in order. Mr. Walker placed the name of A. B. Loebenstein before the convention, and John G. Jones performed a like duty for C. R. Blacow. E. D. Baldwin made a speech in placing before the convention the name of S. L. Desha, and in seconding the nomination John U. Smith informed the delegates of the citizens' meeting of Hilu and its desires. Judge Komau, of Puna, said he was sorry to hear of Mr. Desha's name going in; that he was sure it was not best for Mr. Desha's interest, or in the interest of his church and cause, as the Halli Church was composed of members with all shades of opinion, and the only possible result would be discord and dissension in the church, and he begged that the proposer of his name would withdraw it. Other Hawaiian members spoke in the same vein, but Mr. Baldwin stood by his guns and refused to be stampeded by anything but votes. The chair appointed Charles Swain and Judge Komau tellers, and the vote proceeded, and resulted in Loebenstein's receiving 34, Blacow 29, and Desha 12 votes. On motion the nomination of Mr. Loebenstein was made unanimous. Blacow made a speech thanking the convention for the honor, pledged himself to stand on and work for the platform and success, and if elected to do his best to carry out the will of the people who sent him down.

Nominations for Representatives were next the order, and there was a general drawing of long breaths and casting last appealing glances, and final attempts to change slates, or strengthen those already filed out. There was a degree of uncertainty on account of one or two men holding so many proxies, but Hamakua, North Hilu and Puna knew what they wanted and held out for it, and left the fight to Hilu for what was left. Delegate Estep made a two-minute speech in presenting the name of Charles Williams, referring to the fact that Williams had in his veins the blood of Hawaii as well as that of Revolutionary stock, and that he had risen by his own efforts to his present prominence; had fitted himself alone and over midnight oil to practice law, and that he was a Republican in principle long before there was ever any Republican party in Hawaii, or any prospect of there ever being, and also that he was a native as well as English scholar, as was evidenced by his work in interpreting for the convention. None of the other names was put forward in a set speech. When nominations were closed the following were before the convention: Charles Williams of Hamakua, James Mattoon of Laupahoehoe, James Lewis of Hilu, Koahou of Hilu, Harry Rycroft of Puna, and Keawe-haku of Hilu. When the vote was counted Williams had 40, Rycroft 36, Lewis and Mattoon each 35, and Koahou and Keawe-haku each 7. Keawe-haku came forward and made a neat speech in moving that the nomination of the four highest be made unanimous, and pledging himself to support the ticket. Mr. Keawe-haku was unknown to many of the delegates before the voting commenced, or he would no doubt have made a better showing. By judicious grooming and "mixing" for two years he would no doubt land the nomination in 1902 with ease.

The candidates present made speeches of thanks and placed themselves solidly on the platform. Lewis was not present. On motion the secretary was instructed to cast the vote of the convention for J. D. Paris and H. L. Holstein for Senators, which was done. This was a matter of form, as the whole island of Hawaii is one Senatorial district and entitled to four Senators, and common consent each representative district put up two Senators, and endorsed the two put up by the other convention. The work of the convention being now finished and the hour nearly 1 a. m., an adjournment without delay was had, and the delegates departed in good humor and confident of success.

REPUBLICAN MEETINGS.

October 10, Wednesday—10 a. m., Kaneohe, J. L. Kaulukou, L. L. McCandless, George R. Carter, Frank Pahia; 6:30 p. m
